Cairo, Egypt | July 3, 2019 -On June 29, the World Monuments Fund (WMF) convened a Watch Day event at the Takkiyat Ibrahim al-Gulshani, an important Sufi monument in the heart of Historic Cairo. The event was held with support from the Ministry of Antiquities and the Ambassadors Fund for Cultural Preservation, and in participation with Art Jameel, an organisation that supports heritage, education and the arts, the Arab Academy for Science, Technology and Maritime Transport, and Turath Conservation Group (TCG).

The Takkiyat Ibrahim al-Gulshani was the first religious foundation established in Cairo after the Ottoman conquest of 1517 and was built between 1519 and 1524 by the eponymous Sufi sheikh from modern Azerbaijan. The complex was designed around a freestanding Mamluk-style mausoleum in the middle of a courtyard, framed by Sufi cells, mosque, kitchen, shops, and apartments for his devoted followers and family members. Until recently, the Takkiyat Ibrahim al-Gulshani was abandoned and lay in a state of disrepair, a victim of neglect, looting and the 1992 Cairo earthquake.

Listed as a World Monuments Watch site in 2018, emphasising the urgent need for rehabilitation, the Takkiyat Ibrahim al-Gulshani is the subject of a major ongoing conservation effort by the WMF, supported by the Ministry of Antiquities and the Ambassadors Fund. The WMF team includes Heba Hosny, a graduate of the Jameel House of Traditional Arts in Cairo, the centre for heritage preservation launched by Art Jameel in 2008 with a two-year diploma programme designed and delivered by the Prince's Foundation School of Traditional Arts, in partnership with the Ministry of Culture's Cultural Development Fund. TCG, the heritage consultancy that participated in the Watch Day, was co-founded by Ola Said, another graduate and now tutor at the Jameel House in Cairo.

The 2019 Watch Day event at the Takkiyat Ibrahim al-Gulshani was part of World Monuments Watch Day, a global series of celebratory events organised by local communities at Watch sites to highlight the importance of vibrant community engagement and local stewardship in the sustainable preservation of heritage sites.

As part of the Watch Day event, Basma Khalil, another graduate of the Jameel House in Cairo, produced a series of ceramic tiles inspired by motifs in the Takkiyat Ibrahim al-Gulshani. Both Heba, from the WMF team, and Basma are members of the Atelier Cairo Art Jameel, a platform for Egyptian artisanship and design launched by Art Jameel in February and which aims to support the practice of traditional arts by empowering craft designers with the tools to start or expand their businesses.
